

Gene Rossi Interviewed in Newsweek: “Is $100K Bond Fair for Woman Accused of Insurer Threats? Experts Weigh In”

December 13, 2024

Gene Rossi was interviewed by Newsweek, in an article titled “Is $100K Bond Fair for Woman Accused of Insurer Threats? Experts Weigh In.” The article discusses a woman being held on a $100,000 bond accused of threatening Blue Cross Blue Shield after the health insurance company allegedly denied some of her medical claims. “Given that she used the phrase similar to delay, deny, defend, the judge was erring on the side of caution because he had a defendant who expressed extreme anger to [Blue Cross] on that call,” said Rossi. “The $100,000 bond in that instance may be appropriate. Her use of that three-word phrase suggests she was going to take it another step and possibly harm somebody.” Read the article. Subscription may be required.

Featuring

Gene Rossi

Related Practices

White Collar Crime & Government Investigations

