

In Memoriam: Eurich Z. Griffin

October 27, 2021

Former Carlton Fields shareholder, Eurich Z. Griffin, died late last month at the age of 82. He was an indelible part of our firm's history. The Tampa Bay Times said it this way: "When he was 31, Eurich Z. Griffin became the first Black lawyer to join a white firm in Florida." That was Carlton Fields in 1970. For many years, Eurich was the only Black lawyer in a major firm south of Washington, D.C., from the East Coast all the way to Texas. Eurich was a litigator, and in 1982, when I joined the firm, he was the head of one of the Tampa office trial groups. He was a graduate of Howard University and Harvard Law School, and was an accomplished trial lawyer. I had the pleasure of working with him on many cases and I learned a lot from him. Eurich left the firm in 1994 to, as he put it, "represent real people with real problems." He spent most of his post-Carlton Fields career at Stewart, Joyner, Jordan-Holmes & Holmes, where he worked with two other prominent Black lawyers in Tampa: Del Stewart, who was the first Black assistant public defender in Hillsborough County and the first Black lawyer to serve on the board of directors of the Hillsborough County Bar Association, and Arthenia Joyner, who was the first Black female lawyer to practice law in Hillsborough County and Tampa's first Black female Florida state representative and state senator. -- Nancy J. Faggianelli, Chief Diversity Officer

Authored By

Nancy J. Faggianelli

©2024 Carlton Fields, P.A. Carlton Fields practices law in California through Carlton Fields, LLP. Carlton Fields publications should not be construed as legal advice on any specific facts or circumstances. The contents are intended for general information and educational purposes only, and should not be relied on as if it were advice about a particular fact situation. The distribution of this publication is not intended to create, and receipt of it does not constitute, an attorney-client relationship with Carlton Fields. This publication may not be quoted or referred to in any other publication or proceeding without the prior written consent of the firm, to be given or withheld at our discretion. To request reprint permission for any of our publications, please use our Contact Us form via the link below. The views set forth herein are the personal views of the author and do not necessarily reflect those of the firm. This site may contain hypertext links to information created and maintained by other entities. Carlton Fields does not control or guarantee the accuracy or completeness of this outside information, nor is the inclusion of a link to be intended as an endorsement of those outside sites.