

Carlton Fields Environmental Lawyer Quoted in Articles on Federal Regulations

September 25, 2018

Carlton Fields attorney Neal McAilley was quoted in two Bloomberg Law articles about litigation surrounding environmental regulations.

In one piece, “EPA’s Wheeler Left to Solve Pruitt’s ‘Rubik’s Cube’ of Lawsuits, Rules,” McAilley told a reporter the Trump Administration’s efforts to undo Obama-era environmental regulations have created uncertainty that is “unlikely to be resolved for years to come.” In the second article, “Groundwater Pollution ‘Spaghetti Jungle’ Tees Up High Court Review,” McAilley explained where the courts stand on the scope of the Clean Water Act.

Featuring

Neal McAilley

Related Practices

Environmental Regulation & Litigation

