

Carlton Fields Shareholder Offers Insights Into Environmental Law Developments

July 12, 2018

Carlton Fields Shareholder Neal McAilley, who has decades of experience in environmental law, was quoted in three articles about recent developments in the regulatory world. He spoke to Bloomberg BNA and Law360 about the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's move toward rescinding a water regulation enacted by the Obama Administration. McAilley also spoke to Bloomberg BNA for a separate article about how the shift to a more conservative U.S. Supreme Court might affect environmental cases.

Featuring

Neal McAilley

Related Practices

Development

Environmental, Land Use & Development Approvals and Litigation

Environmental Regulation & Litigation

Government Law & Consulting

