

Class Action and Labor & Employment Attorneys Publish Article in Westlaw Journal of Employment and Thomson Reuters: L&E Cases Top Class-action List in Latest Carlton Fields Class Action Survey

August 13, 2019

The 2019 Carlton Fields Class Action Survey has become a standard reference guide for companies, providing data and insights into emerging issues and best practices in the management of class-action litigation. According to the survey, labor and employment matters lead all other categories of class actions filed against American corporations. Carlton Fields' National Class Action practice chair Julianna Thomas McCabe and Labor and Employment Shareholders Cathleen Bell Bremmer and Irma Reboso Solares, authored an article detailing these recent findings.
