

Carlton Fields Shareholder Neal McAliley Quoted in Law360 Article About Federal Import Rules

April 06, 2020

Carlton Fields environmental attorney Neal McAliley was quoted in a Law360 article discussing the expansion of the Lacey Act, a federal regulation that concerns imported plants and natural materials. The act protects plants and wildlife by providing a financial incentive to companies to comply with environmental protection laws, McAliley said. READ: Law360, “New Import Rule For Natural Materials May Create Headaches”

Featuring

Neal McAliley

Related Practices

Environmental Regulation & Litigation

