

Carlton Fields' Allison Kahn Quoted in Daily Business Review on COVID-19 Labor and Employment Litigation

May 19, 2021

Carlton Fields labor and employment attorney Allison Kahn was quoted in a Law.com/Daily Business Review article regarding a recent class action suit brought by six former Four Seasons Miami employees alleging that the resort disregarded the Worker Adjustment and Retraining Act during the COVID-19 crisis. Kahn commented that the complaint's introduction could be seen as a strategy to push the property to settle, instead of getting involved in long litigation. "The introduction in the complaint was meant to have a bullying approach to pressure Fort Seasons to settle regardless of merit," said Kahn. "The formatting of how complaints are usually done, you don't usually begin with an almost three-page statement listing grievances that you have against another party if they don't have anything to do with the lawsuit ..."

Read the article. (Subscription may be required).

Featuring

Allison Oasis Kahn

Related Practices

Labor & Employment
Hospitality

