

Biden Swings Waters Pendulum With Final Resolution Still Elusive

January 29, 2021

Carlton Fields environmental attorney Neal McAilely was quoted in a Bloomberg Environment and Energy Report article about the Biden administration expanding water regulation, adding to a debate about the definition of waters of the U.S., or WOTUS. “There are some rules that are technical and arcane that take on this broader significance for people in the country, and this WOTUS rule is one of them,” McAilely said. READ: Bloomberg Environment and Energy Report, “Biden Swings Waters Pendulum With Final Resolution Still Elusive” (subscription only)

Featuring

Neal McAilely

Related Practices

Environmental Regulation & Litigation

