

Mark Neubauer Featured in Daily Journal: “Survey: Class Action Defense Costs Soar to $3.9 Billion in 2023”

March 14, 2024

Mark Neubauer was interviewed by the Daily Journal, for an article titled “Survey: Class Action Defense Costs Soar to $3.9 Billion in 2023.” The article discusses the results of the firm’s 2024 Class Action Survey, which shows that corporate in-house lawyers are bracing for an onslaught of data privacy, cybersecurity, and generative AI class actions. “When we first started this survey, [surveyed companies] reported just $2 billion in spending so at $3.9 billion it’s almost doubled in 13 years and it shows three major drivers – more companies are facing class actions, increased complexity, and the claims are getting larger,” said Neubauer. Read the article. Subscription may be required.

Featuring

Mark A. Neubauer

Related Practices

Class Actions

