

Alternative Dispute Resolution Services

Overview

Carlton Fields litigators focus on helping clients achieve their business objectives. This often requires using more efficient alternatives to the court system, such as mediation and arbitration. In addition to having extensive experience representing clients in these proceedings, our litigation team includes several attorneys certified as mediators and qualified as arbitrators by state and federal courts, as well as attorneys who serve as special masters. The firm's mediators and arbitrators have particular experience in various practice areas including bankruptcy, construction, employment, intellectual property law, and product liability and mass torts.
