In many ways, the insurance industry is on the front lines of the country's response to COVID-19, as evidenced by the many governors' emergency orders and insurance bulletins that have been directed at the insurance industry as a result of the crisis.

In an effort to assist the insurance industry track and implement these directives, the Carlton Fields team has put together a spreadsheet of every emergency order, insurance bulletin, or other directive affecting certain operations of the insurance industry, organized according to issues commonly addressed by these orders.

We will continue to monitor orders affecting the insurance industry and updating the spreadsheet as the fight against COVID-19 continues. Please reach out to any member of the Carlton Fields team with requests for assistance in understanding and implementing the mandates upon the insurance industry related to COVID-19.
