Overview

Austin Eason is a health care attorney who focuses his practice on litigating medical malpractice, facility/premises liability, and nursing home and assisted living cases. He also has experience negotiating, litigating, and settling contract, construction, and commercial matters, as well as transactional work involving health care providers.

Prior to entering private practice, Austin represented the state of Florida as a prosecutor for the State Attorney's Office in Sarasota, Florida, where he litigated thousands of cases and tried more than 30 jury trials.
