Overview

Since the mid-1980s, Stephen Krigbaum has represented manufacturers of consumer, pharmaceutical, and chemical products as lead counsel in mass tort, class actions, and other complex litigation in state, federal, and appellate courts. Representative clients include Johnson & Johnson, Union Carbide Corp., RJ Reynolds Tobacco Co., Takata Corp., Philip Morris USA Inc., and Dow Chemical Co.

In addition to his courtroom experience, he has held management and executive level in-house legal positions in the United States and Asia for the Altria group of companies (including Philip Morris and Kraft Foods) and for Dow Chemical Co.

Stephen also served as special counsel to Tyco International to assist in managing the post-Kozlowski fallout. His approach to advocacy in the courtroom and client counseling is informed by 35-plus years of experience.
